

FULL MOON IN SAGITTARIUS · SATURDAY, 2 MAY 2026

Gemini

This ritual is about love and close partnerships.

Something in you already knows how to love well — this ritual is simply an invitation to stop interrupting it.

PREPARATION

Face west. Arrange your space with a gentleness that mirrors what you are asking love to do — smooth the surface, remove anything sharp or rushed, let the room feel like a place someone would want to stay. Silence notifications and let the music settle into the air before you begin anything else. Pour a glass of white wine or warm chamomile tea, hold it in both hands and breathe across the surface before your first slow sip. Close your eyes and let yourself picture what real partnership feels like in the body — not the idea of it, but the physical sensation: the ease of being known, the warmth of presence beside you, the sound of laughter that belongs to something lasting. Open your eyes only when that feeling becomes more vivid than the room. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the yellow candle and notice how it brightens not just the surface but the air around it, the way a genuinely open person changes the quality of a room.

Crush a small amount of lavender between your fingers and breathe in the scent slowly, letting it carry you into a softer register — one where you are fully present to what love actually asks of you rather than what you fear it will take.

Hold the citrine in your left hand and picture the face or the feeling of the partnership you are calling in or deepening, staying with it until the image sharpens rather than softens.

Speak three qualities you are genuinely ready to bring to a partnership — not aspirations, but things you know to be true of you when you are at your most open — and let each word fall clearly into the candlelit air.

Set the citrine directly in front of the yellow candle and scatter the remaining lavender around it in a loose arc, sealing the ritual with the understanding that what you have named under the Sagittarius full moon has now been witnessed.
