

FULL MOON IN GEMINI · SATURDAY, 2 DECEMBER 2028

Aquarius

This ritual is for romance, creativity, and joy.

Somewhere between desire and delight there is a door, and the full moon in Gemini is holding it open, asking only whether you are willing to walk through.

PREPARATION

Face south. Do not clean the space — arrange it. There is a difference, and tonight it matters: move things for beauty rather than order, create a small altar of pleasure from whatever is at hand. Let soft jazz or acoustic strings play at a volume that feels like a secret shared. Pour a glass of something you genuinely enjoy — a wine you love, a tea that feels like a small luxury — and hold it with appreciation before taking one slow, deliberately pleasurable sip. Close your eyes and let yourself imagine joy without qualifying it — not earned joy, not cautious joy, but the wide, slightly reckless feeling of something or someone who delights you completely, and sit inside that feeling until it feels true. Open your eyes only when the room feels warm. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the blue candle with the easy unhurried motion of someone who has already decided to enjoy this, letting its color speak to the fluid, open-hearted creativity that is trying to move through you right now.

Place a drop or two of bergamot oil on your inner wrists and hold them to your nose, breathing in slowly and letting the bright citrus and floral notes remind your nervous system that pleasure is not a detour — it is the whole point of this particular ritual under the Gemini moon.

Hold the aquamarine up to the candlelight and look at the way light moves inside it, naming quietly to yourself one creative project you have been postponing and one romantic or joyful experience you are ready to invite into your life — not as demands, but as soft and genuine invitations.

Set the aquamarine in a place where the light of the blue candle reaches it, and spend five minutes doing something purely expressive — writing a few lines, sketching, dancing in place, or simply letting the music move through your body without performing anything for anyone.

When the five minutes are done, hold the aquamarine once more, breathe one full breath of bergamot from your wrist, and set the stone down at the candle's base as a declaration that joy has a place in your life and you are actively making room for it.
