

FULL MOON IN PISCES · MONDAY, 4 SEPTEMBER 2028

Leo

This ritual is for deep transformation, shared finances, and inner healing.

Gold is not made gently — and neither is the person you are becoming under this moon.

PREPARATION

Face west. Dim every light source that you can until only the future candle glow remains possible, and let the room grow intentionally shadowed. Silence all devices completely — not just silenced, but put away. Pour a glass of wine or warm tea and hold it with deliberate weight in your hands before drinking; let the warmth feel like something being given rather than taken. Close your eyes and descend — picture the place inside you that holds what is half-transformed, half-finished, half-healed, and meet it without flinching. Open your eyes only when you are ready to look at what you found.

THE RITUAL

Light the gold candle slowly, as though the act of striking the flame is already a transaction between you and something larger than your current understanding.

Hold the pyrite in both hands and feel its weight, its cool metallic density, and name aloud — quietly and without performance — the one financial or emotional entanglement this Pisces full moon is helping you transmute.

Light the frankincense and let its smoke rise between you and the candle flame, watching the two lights — fire and ember — exist in the same space without competing, as a reminder that what you are releasing and what you are becoming can coexist.

Pass the pyrite slowly through the frankincense smoke three times, once for what has been, once for what is, and once for the transformed version of this situation you are calling into being.

Set the pyrite in front of the gold candle and sit in silence until the frankincense burns out naturally — do not rush it; transformation does not arrive on your schedule, but it has arrived.
