

NEW MOON IN SCORPIO · TUESDAY, 6 NOVEMBER 2029

Libra

This ritual is for money, income, and material security.

Security is not cold or unglamorous — it is the ground that everything else you love is built upon.

PREPARATION

Face north. Before you sit, make sure the space feels orderly — financial intention requires a foundation that is not in chaos. Turn off notifications, let the forest sounds begin, and allow the low frequencies to settle your nervous system before you ask it to do serious work. Pour a glass of water or warm tea, hold it in both hands, and take one deliberate sip — a small act of receiving that requires nothing from you but willingness. Close your eyes and picture your material life as you want it to look: not luxury in the abstract, but the specific feeling of enough — a bill paid without dread, a number in an account that does not make you flinch, the ease that comes with real security. Stay with that feeling until it becomes motivation rather than longing. Open your eyes. The work begins here.

THE RITUAL

Hold the rose quartz in your dominant hand and say aloud a specific, real number — an income goal, a savings target, a debt you intend to clear — because naming a number is the first act of financial intention and vagueness is the first act of avoidance.

Place two drops or a small amount of ylang ylang on your wrists and press them together, breathing the scent in slowly, letting it soften the anxiety that often lives between you and your own financial potential.

Light the pink candle and let your eyes rest on the flame as you sit with the number you named — not begging for it, but regarding it as something already in motion, already being drawn toward the actions you are willing to take.

Arrange the rose quartz directly in front of the pink candle and set the ylang ylang beside it, then name aloud one concrete action — one phone call, one application, one budget decision — you will take within the next three days in direct service of your financial goal.

Close the ritual by pressing your palm flat on the surface around the rose quartz and pink candle, holding the pressure for a breath, sealing your intention into the physical world as the Scorpio new moon opens the cycle of real and growing security.

YOU WILL NEED

pink candle

rose quartz

ylang ylang

♪ deep forest sounds or steady low-frequency tones