

FULL MOON IN ARIES · SUNDAY, 23 SEPTEMBER 2029

Gemini

This ritual is for friendships, community, and future goals.

The future you are building already has people in it — you have simply not met all of them yet.

PREPARATION

Face south. Arrange your space with a lightness to it — move anything heavy or cluttered aside, because tonight asks for openness, not weight. Silence distractions and let the music begin softly before you do anything else, so the atmosphere is already welcoming when you arrive at it. Pour a glass of sparkling water or a bright herbal tea, hold it up briefly as if toasting someone you love who is not in the room, and then drink. Close your eyes and picture your community — the faces of people who genuinely see you — and then picture one future goal you are moving toward, and feel how those two things are not separate. Open your eyes when the connection between them feels alive. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the yellow candle and let its brightness fill the space between you and everything beyond your door — this flame is an open invitation to the right people and possibilities.

Hold the citrine up toward the candle's light and rotate it slowly, watching it catch and scatter brightness, letting that image become a symbol of what you give out returning to you multiplied.

Crush or crumble a small amount of lavender between your fingers and breathe it in deeply, letting its clarity move through your thoughts like a breeze that carries your intentions outward toward the people meant to receive them.

Say aloud the name of one person in your life who has supported your growth, and then name one goal you intend to reach before the next full moon — let the Aries fire in this lunation burn as the fuel beneath both.

Place the citrine directly in front of the yellow candle and scatter the remaining lavender around it in a circle, sealing the intention with the oldest gesture there is: a ring with no gap.
