

FULL MOON IN SCORPIO · FRIDAY, 17 MAY 2030

Libra

This ritual is for money, income, and material security.

There is nothing unspiritual about money — it is simply energy that has learned to move through the material world, and tonight you are learning to receive it.

PREPARATION

Face north. Bring an unhurried practicality to the space — not a performance of tidiness but a genuine ordering of what is in front of you, so that the surface feels clear and capable of holding real intention. Silence your devices and let the deep forest sounds or low tones settle around you like a floor underfoot — steady, present, and reliable. Pour a glass of still water or a warm cup of chamomile or oat-straw tea, hold it in both hands and let yourself feel its solidity in your grip, then take one slow, deliberate sip as if tasting what it means to have enough. Close your eyes and construct a detailed, sensory picture of financial security — not abstraction, but concrete life: what you pay without fear, what you eat, how your body feels when the accounts are full and the month is not something to dread. Open your eyes only when that picture settles into something that feels less like wishing and more like a place you are moving toward. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the pink candle and note that its warmth is not soft in the sentimental sense — it is the warm persistence of someone who has decided to be comfortable in their own life and is no longer apologizing for it.

Place two drops of ylang ylang essential oil on your wrists and press them together, then bring them slowly to your face and breathe in — letting the rich, golden scent open something in you that has been clenched around the subject of money and material provision.

Hold the rose quartz flat in your open palm and look at it directly, then speak aloud, in plain and specific numbers and words, what income or financial stability you are calling in — the figure, the feeling, the life it makes possible.

With the rose quartz pressed between both palms, spend two minutes in deliberate stillness, not hoping but deciding — deciding that abundance is a direction you are walking in, and that tonight's ritual marks the moment you stopped walking away from it.

Place the rose quartz at the base of the burning pink candle, touch the remaining ylang ylang oil to your sternum as a seal, and leave the arrangement undisturbed through the night as a standing declaration of material readiness.

YOU WILL NEED

pink candle

rose quartz

ylang ylang

♪ deep forest sounds or steady low-frequency tones