

NEW MOON IN SCORPIO · WEDNESDAY, 3 NOVEMBER 2032

Scorpio

This ritual is for personal identity, confidence, and new beginnings.

The new moon in your own sign is not a gentle suggestion — it is the loudest permission you will receive all year to become exactly who you have been circling.

PREPARATION

Face east. Let the drumming or the orchestral swell begin before you do anything else — let the music move through you and remind your body that it was built for forward motion. Clear the surface before you with one decisive sweep; this is not a space for hesitation. Pour something bold — red wine, espresso, strong tea — hold the cup, and take the first sip as a deliberate act, a choice, a small foretaste of the new way you intend to move through the world. Close your eyes and picture yourself exactly as you want to be perceived: not performing, not apologizing, but simply present and unmistakably yourself, moving through a room or a moment with full authority. Stay with that image until it feels like a recollection rather than a wish. Open your eyes when it does. The ritual has already begun.

THE RITUAL

Take the obsidian in your dominant hand and hold it at eye level for a full minute, meeting it directly, letting the stone's reflective darkness show you the version of yourself you are no longer willing to be small about.

Light the black candle and as the flame rises, say aloud — at full voice, no qualification, no softening — a single declaration about who you are becoming under this Scorpio new moon, beginning with the words "I am".

Pass the myrrh resin or a small amount of it through the candle's heat until its ancient, resinous scent rises, and breathe it in as if you are inhaling the oldest, truest version of yourself back into your body.

Set the obsidian directly before the black candle and place both hands open on the surface, palms down, pressing firmly as you hold your "I am" declaration in your chest — not in your head, in your chest, where it belongs.

Lift the obsidian with both hands and hold it above the black candle's light, then bring it to rest in your lap as a sealed object, a carried reminder that your identity is not waiting for anyone's confirmation to become real.

YOU WILL NEED

black candle

obsidian

myrrh

♪ energetic drumming or bold orchestral swells