

NEW MOON IN SAGITTARIUS · FRIDAY, 3 DECEMBER 2032

Sagittarius

This ritual is for personal identity, confidence, and the fresh beginning that belongs only to you.

The new moon falls on your first house tonight, and the sky is not suggesting that you change — it is suggesting that you arrive.

PREPARATION

Face east. Stand before you sit — let your body be upright for a moment before the ritual begins, because tonight it is the whole of you that is being called forward. Clear the space in front of you with intention: what is here should be here, what is not should be moved aside. Pour a glass of something that feels celebratory — wine, something sparkling, a rich tea — and hold it at arm's length for a breath before drawing it in, tasting your own future in it. Close your eyes and see yourself clearly: not who you have been told you are, but who you actually are when no one is managing or softening you — stand in that image and feel it fully. Open your eyes when you are ready to be exactly yourself. This is where it starts.

THE RITUAL

Light the purple candle with a steady hand and hold eye contact with the flame for a long moment, letting it reflect back the part of you that is capable, specific, and genuinely ready to begin under this New Moon in Sagittarius.

Light the sage and move it through the air around your head and shoulders in slow, deliberate sweeps, clearing away the accumulated weight of others' expectations so that what remains is unmistakably you.

Hold the lapis lazuli at your forehead for three full breaths, pressing it gently to the space between your brows, letting its deep blue frequency align the version of you that knows exactly who it is and exactly where it is going.

Speak aloud — directly, without preamble — who you are becoming in this new lunar cycle: not a list of traits but a single vivid statement of the self you are no longer willing to keep in reserve.

Place the lapis lazuli at the base of the purple candle with the sage smoke still clearing the air, and let the flame burn in witness of the fact that the person this ritual addresses has already begun.
