

NEW MOON IN GEMINI · SATURDAY, 28 MAY 2033

Pisces

This ritual is for home, family, and emotional roots.

Somewhere inside every person is the first home they ever felt — and this ritual finds its way back there.

PREPARATION

Face north. Walk through the room slowly and touch the things that matter — a photograph, a fabric, a chair that carries the shape of someone you love. Let the space remind you that it is more than walls and surfaces. Silence all devices and let the rain and piano hold the quiet. Pour a cup of warm milk or soft herbal tea, hold it in both hands and breathe in its warmth, understanding this as an act of returning to something essential, and drink one slow, nourishing sip. Close your eyes and picture the word home not as a place but as a feeling: the specific warmth of being known and held, the ease of existing without performance, the faces and rooms and smells that have shaped the inside of you. Let the feeling move through your body like warm water. Open your eyes when you feel genuinely held by the memory. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the sea green candle slowly, as you would light a candle in a room where someone is sleeping, and let its soft color represent the emotional safety and rootedness you are nurturing this lunar cycle under the New Moon in Gemini.

Place a few drops of jasmine oil on a cloth or your wrist and breathe it in with your eyes closed, letting the sweetness unlock the specific memory of belonging that lives deepest in your body.

Hold the moonstone to your chest with both hands and name aloud one act of care — toward your home, your family, or your own emotional foundation — that you commit to this cycle.

Carry the moonstone to the center of your home, or as close to it as you can stand, and hold it there for three slow breaths, asking the stone to anchor warmth, stability, and genuine belonging into the very structure of the place you live.

Return the moonstone to rest beside the sea green candle in the soft drift of jasmine, and let the candle burn while the rain and piano play, sitting in the knowledge that the roots you tend tonight will hold you through everything that is coming.

YOU WILL NEED

sea green candle

moonstone

jasmine

♪ soft rain and warm piano, no lyrics