

NEW MOON IN LIBRA · THURSDAY, 12 OCTOBER 2034

Sagittarius

This ritual is for friendships, community, and the vision of your future.

A vision without a circle is just a dream — but a dream shared aloud with the right people begins, almost immediately, to move toward being real.

PREPARATION

Face south. Open the room slightly — crack a window if you can, let something of the outside world in, because this ritual is about expanding beyond the self and into connection. Clear a generous space, not a cramped one: what you are calling in needs room to arrive. Pour a glass of warm spiced wine or a bright, herbal tea, hold it loosely in both hands as though you are sharing a drink with a future version of your life, and take a sip that feels generous and unhurried. Close your eyes and picture your people — the community you have, the community you want, the faces around a table or a fire where the conversation is real and the future being discussed feels genuinely worth building. Feel the warmth of it, the specific sound of laughter that comes from people who mean it. Open your eyes only when that picture feels inhabited rather than imagined. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the purple candle as an act of opening — this flame is not just for you but for every person who belongs in the circle you are building, and every goal you intend to reach by not walking toward it alone.

Light the sage and move it slowly through the space around you, letting the smoke clear out any residue of isolation, disappointment in past community, or reluctance to ask for what you need from the people who care for you.

Hold the lapis lazuli to your forehead and breathe in the last of the sage smoke, letting the two work together to bring your long-range vision into sharper, braver focus.

Speak the names of three people — aloud or in a whisper — who belong in your future, either because they are already there or because this New Moon in Libra is the moment you decide to draw them closer, and press the lapis lazuli to your heart as you say each name.

Set the lapis lazuli at the base of the purple candle and let both remain as a beacon through the night, sealing the intention that your community and your future goals are now moving toward each other.
