

NEW MOON IN SAGITTARIUS · MONDAY, 11 DECEMBER 2024

Aquarius

This ritual is for friendships, community, and your vision for the future.

You were never meant to arrive at your future alone — and the people who belong alongside you are also, right now, looking for the signal.

PREPARATION

Face south. Before lighting anything, take a moment to think of the people who are in your orbit — not in gratitude or obligation, just as a clear-eyed inventory of the network you carry. Soften the space around you and silence what can be silenced. Pour a glass of something bright and light — sparkling water, a citrus tea, a white wine — and hold it up briefly, as if raising it toward the idea of everyone who matters, before your first sip. Close your eyes and picture your future — not in five years, in twenty — the community you belong to, the goals that the group is moving toward together, the version of the world that your circle is quietly building. Open your eyes when the image feels populated and real. The network is activated.

THE RITUAL

Light the blue candle with the awareness that this flame is also a beacon — a signal going out across the network of people and futures you are part of under this New Moon in Sagittarius.

Apply a drop of bergamot oil to your palms and rub them together slowly before holding them open, letting the bright, sociable scent move into the space as an invitation — to collaboration, to connection, to the right people finding their way closer.

Hold the aquamarine and let its cool clarity help you name, aloud, the specific future goal or community vision you are committing to in this lunar cycle — say it with the precision you would use to tell it to a friend who will hold you to it.

Sit with the aquamarine in one hand and your other hand open beside the blue candle, and let yourself feel — genuinely — the warmth of knowing that your goals and your people are not competing forces but the same force moving in two directions at once.

Set the aquamarine before the blue candle flame and let the light move through the stone, sealing the intention that what you are building belongs to more than just you, and that is precisely what makes it powerful.

YOU WILL NEED

blue candle

aquamarine

bergamot

♪ uplifting ambient or soft choral tones