Cancer

This ritual is for money, income, and material security.

Security is not found — it is built, quietly, from small and steady acts of intention.

PREPARATION

Face north. Arrange your space with care — set the objects in front of you deliberately, because the act of organizing your ritual space is the first act of organizing your relationship with material life. Let deep forest sounds or low tones fill the room, the kind of sound that makes you feel the ground beneath you. Pour a cup of warm chamomile tea, wrap both hands around the mug, and hold it until the warmth becomes its own kind of comfort before you drink. Close your eyes and picture your financial life not as a number but as a feeling — the specific texture of having enough, the ease in your body when the bills are paid and there is still something left, the quiet confidence of a stable foundation. Open your eyes only when that feeling is more than a wish — when it feels like something on its way. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the white candle and place it directly in front of you, understanding that its steady, clear flame represents clarity and consistency — the two most underrated forces in financial life.

Brew or place a small cup of chamomile tea beside the candle and let its scent move through the air, inhaling once slowly, because what you are calling in is not urgency but calm, grounded abundance.

Take the moonstone in your non-dominant hand and press it to the inside of your wrist, feeling your own pulse there, and say aloud: "I am building something that lasts."

Set the moonstone beside the candle and sit for one full minute in silence, doing nothing but watching the flame and holding the image of your financial life as steady, sufficient, and growing.

When the minute has passed, cup both hands briefly around — not over — the candle's warmth and then press your palms flat to the table or floor, grounding the intention of income and security into the physical world under this New Moon in Leo.
