

NEW MOON IN LIBRA · WEDNESDAY, 13 SEPTEMBER 2024

Virgo

This ritual is for money, income, and the foundation of material security.

Money is not a metaphor tonight — it is a real thing you are deciding to take seriously, tend carefully, and call toward you with clear intention.

PREPARATION

Face north. Set the space before you as you would set a table for an important meeting — level, clean, deliberate. Remove clutter without ceremony: it has no place here. Silence your phone and let the background sound you have chosen fill the room with its steady, low weight. Pour a glass of full-bodied red wine or a strong, dark tea, hold it in both hands, feel its density, and take one slow sip that settles you further into the ground beneath your feet. Close your eyes and picture your finances not as they are but as they could be when tended with real care — picture a specific number, a specific account, the physical feeling of having enough and then some, the ease in your body when you do not worry about what is coming in. Open your eyes only when that image feels solid, not wishful. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the brown candle with both hands cupped briefly around the base, letting the warmth of your palms meet the wax as a gesture of claiming your material life as something worth tending.

Lay a few sprigs of fresh or dried rosemary before the candle, each one placed with the understanding that this herb has long signaled to the senses that something important is being remembered and renewed.

Hold the amethyst at your forehead for thirty seconds, letting it clear any thinking about money that has been clouded by fear or resignation, replacing it with sober and steady intention.

Move the amethyst to your lap or the surface before you and press both palms flat on either side of it, breathing in the scent of the rosemary and letting your body register this moment as a genuine turning point toward financial order and abundance.

Place the amethyst on top of the rosemary at the foot of the brown candle, sealing the arrangement with one firm, deliberate press of your index finger to the stone as if signing your name to an agreement with your own future.

YOU WILL NEED

brown candle

amethyst

rosemary

♪ deep forest sounds or steady low-frequency tones