

FULL MOON IN GEMINI · FRIDAY, 16 NOVEMBER 2035

Scorpio

This ritual is for deep transformation, shared finances, and inner healing.

Not everything that lives in the dark is something to escape — some of it is yours, and tonight the moon is bright enough to finally see it clearly.

PREPARATION

Face west. Let the room be as dark as it can reasonably be — one candle is enough light here, and the dark is part of the work. Remove nothing unless it genuinely disturbs you; this space does not need to be pretty. Silence every device without ceremony. Pour a small glass of deep red wine or a cup of dark, unsweetened tea, hold it in your hands without rushing, and take one slow and conscious sip. Close your eyes and go to the place inside you that you do not usually visit in daylight — the chamber where old grief and old power sit together — and look at what is there without flinching, just looking. Open your eyes only when you feel neither afraid nor avoidant. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the black candle slowly and with full attention, watching the flame catch and hold as a symbol that even in the deepest transformation, a light persists, steady and sufficient.

Place a small amount of myrrh resin on a heat-safe surface and allow it to smolder or warm near the candle flame, letting the ancient resinous smoke carry outward whatever you are ready to transform — grief, old patterns, financial fear — under this Gemini full moon.

Hold the obsidian in your right hand and look directly at it in the candlelight, naming inwardly the single thing you most need to heal or release in this season — not explaining it, not narrating it, just naming it plainly to yourself.

Set the obsidian before the black candle and write on a small piece of paper what you are letting die in this cycle, then fold it away from you — always away — and let it rest beside the stone as a formal act of conscious release and deep interior change.

When you are ready, burn the paper in the candle flame over a safe dish, watching it transform rather than disappear, and when it is ash, press the obsidian once against your sternum before setting it down — this is the seal, and the ritual is complete.

YOU WILL NEED

black candle

obsidian

myrrh

♪ deep Tibetan singing bowls or low drone