

NEW MOON IN GEMINI · WEDNESDAY, 6 JUNE 2035

Leo

This ritual is for friendships, community, and future goals.

No star burns alone, and the most luminous futures are built in the warmth of other people.

PREPARATION

Face south. Brighten the space slightly — light is welcome here. Clear away anything that feels isolating or small, and let the room feel as if it could hold more than just you tonight. Silence your devices but allow your music to play softly if it helps you feel the warmth of something larger than yourself. Pour a glass of good wine or golden honey tea, hold it up briefly as if in a toast to the people who believe in you, and drink one grateful sip. Close your eyes and picture your ideal community — not perfectly, but truly: the laughter, the shared purpose, the faces that know you and choose you anyway. See the future goals you are building together taking shape. Open your eyes when the image feels generous and alive. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the gold candle with both hands and let its warm glow represent the community you are actively calling into your life and the goals you intend to reach within it.

Hold the pyrite up to the candlelight so its facets catch the flame, then name aloud one future goal — not the modest version, the real one — as if speaking it into a room full of people who already believe it is possible.

Light a small amount of frankincense resin or burn a frankincense incense stick, letting the smoke rise upward as an offering to connection, collaboration, and the shared dreams that the Gemini sky is opening for you.

As the incense burns, write or mentally list three people whose presence in your life amplifies your best self, sending each of them a silent acknowledgment before the smoke clears.

Place the pyrite beside the gold candle in the frankincense smoke for one minute, then move it to a visible place in your home where it will remind you daily that your future is both personal and collective.
