

FULL MOON IN SCORPIO · SATURDAY, 10 MAY 2036

Pisces

This ritual is about travel, beliefs, and expanding horizons.

Somewhere in the world tonight, there is a road you have not yet taken, and the most honest part of you already knows which direction it runs.

PREPARATION

Face south. Open the space with a sweeping generosity — push things to the edges, make the area feel larger than it did, and if there is a window facing south or near you, consider leaving it slightly open so the night air enters and the world outside is genuinely present. Silence your devices and let the music begin at a volume that feels like distance — like sound that is traveling toward you from somewhere far away, and arriving. Pour a glass of something that feels like an elsewhere — a wine from a country you've never been to, or a tea made from an herb you didn't grow up with — hold it in both hands, breathe in whatever strange or beautiful scent it carries, and take one sip as a small act of welcome toward the unfamiliar. Close your eyes and picture yourself somewhere you have never been but have always felt pulled toward — build it in full detail: the light quality, the air temperature, the sounds, the feeling in your body of being someone who goes places and thinks new thoughts and is genuinely changed by what they encounter. Open your eyes only when the room feels like a departure point rather than a destination. The ritual begins now.

THE RITUAL

Light the sea green candle and let its unusual, oceanic color orient you — this is the color of the horizon line between what is known and what is not, and you are choosing, tonight, to face that line with curiosity rather than caution.

Bring the jasmine oil or dried jasmine to your nose and breathe in slowly — jasmine is the scent of warm nights in places where the world is older and stranger and more beautiful than the one you see every day, and breathing it is itself a small act of arrival.

Hold the moonstone up toward the candlelight and watch the glow shift inside it — called the traveler's stone for centuries, it carries the energy of journeys that change you, and tonight you are asking it to mark you as someone in active motion toward expanded belief and wider life.

Speak aloud, to the candle or the window or the open air, one belief that you are releasing because it has made your world smaller, and one new conviction or possibility you are choosing to entertain in its place — say both with the same weight and seriousness.

Place the moonstone at the base of the burning sea green candle and let the jasmine scent continue to move through the room while you sit with your face turned slightly toward the window — sealing the ritual in the direction of the horizon and everything that waits beyond it.

YOU WILL NEED

sea green candle

moonstone

jasmine

♪ expansive world music or open orchestral